Dormant Accounts Procedure

Definition

An account is dormant when the customer has made no deposit or withdrawal for 12 months. Interest paid and automatic charges do not count as customer activity.

Notice

The branch writes to the customer 30 days before an account is marked dormant. A dormant account cannot be used until the customer shows identification at a branch.

Unclaimed balances

A balance that has been dormant for five years is transferred to the unclaimed funds register. The customer or the heirs can still claim it with identification.
